The Weather.

For Kentucky: Probably rain
Saturday. Colder.

For the first time in nearly twenty years the Kentuckian will miss an issue next week. No paper will be issued Tuesday, as it would be necessary to work Christmas day to do so and we have decided that the printers are entitled to a day off once every fifteen or twenty years. The news field will be covered with the paper of Thursday and for one week only our patrons will be put back on the old semi-weekly basis.

For the twenty-seventh time the Kentuckian takes occasion to wish all of its patrons and friends a merry Christmas. There is every reason for rejoicing that the holiday season this year can be happier and more enjoyable than it was a year ago. Then the smallpox epidemic greatly hindered a prosperous holiday trade and many of our people were quarantined in the hospitals or in their homes. This time there is nothing to interfere with joy unconfined. A merry Christmas to everybody!

Washington talk centers around the story being told by the friends of Miss Alice Roosevelt, that Representative Nicholas Longworth had to propose to "the American Princess" seven times before he was accepted, and that she led him as merry a chase as any suitor, however persistent, would have followed, says a Washington telegram to the New York American. Many stories of the dignified, manly attitude of the man who has won a President's daughter during the years he cherished devotion for her are being told.

McClure's Magazine begins the new year with a number filled with American activity and decency. From the first article telling of the daily life of probably the most consistently active man in the country, the President, to the editorials at the end with the gospel of decent, upright living, there is not a page here of either instruction, appeal, or healthy entertainment.

Lincoln Steffens writes of Mayor Mark Fagan of Jersey City. Ray Stannard Baker presents the third article of his series, "The Railroads on Trial," making astonishing exposures this time of the strange, devious methods of the big shippers to hold up the railroads and the public, and to gobble wealth from both through the private car abuses. Henry Beach Feedham in an article illustrated with rare portraits and photographs of Mr. Roosevelt tells of the routine of the president's life, of the marvelous amount of work he manages to accomplish in a brief time, and the diversity of his interests.

Abraham H. Hummel, the New York lawyer, was on Wednesday convicted of conspiracy in connection with the noted Dodge-Morse divorce case. He was sentenced, within a few minutes after the jury's verdict had been pronounced, to one year's imprisonment and a fine of $500, which is the maximum penalty for the misdemeanor of which he was convicted. A motion of his lawyers for an arrest of judgment for twenty-four hours was denied, and Hummel was taken to the Tombs, preparatory to going to the penitentiary. He prepared to spend the night at the Tombs, but later was released on bail, following the issuance of a writ of reasonable doubt by Justice Woodward, of the Supreme Court. The rapidity of this entire proceeding, coming, as it did, against one of the most prominent and successful of New York lawyers, caused great surprise. Depending upon the result of this case are actions in other indictments against prominent persons which have grown out of the Dodge-Morse divorce case.

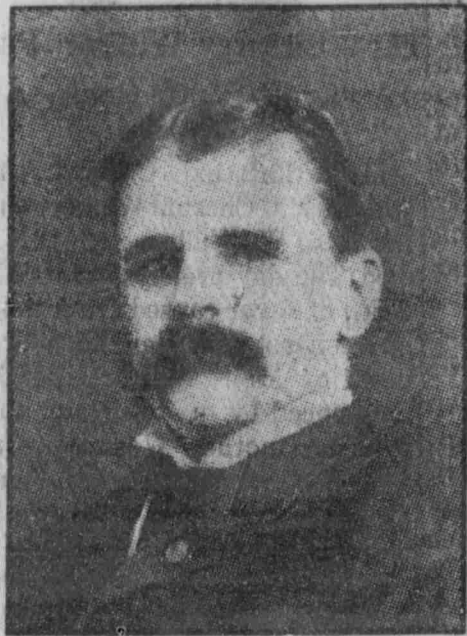

Miss Ethel Watterson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Watterson, was on Wednesday married at Mansfield, Mr. Watterson's country seat, to Alexander Gilmour, a Louisville business man. Dr. E. L. Powell, of the Church of the Disciples, performed the ceremony. The young couple went East for their honeymoon. It was the fortieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Watterson.

A new Democratic paper called the Journal, has made its appearance at Madisonville with R. L. Furgerson as editor and publisher. It is strongly pro-administration and the first issue begins a controversy with the Hustler, the Blackburn organ. The Journal will be issued every Thursday.

It is not often that a lawyer slips up in his own grease, but that is what happened to lawyer Abe Hummel in New York. While trying to get a client out of trouble in a divorce suit, he overstepped the law and got himself into the penitentiary.

A SKY SCRAPER

Built of Concrete Without Steel Frame.

Concrete seems to be coming into general use for building purposes. Dr. Woodard's handsome new residence on Virginia street is built of concrete and the walls of the Y. M. C. A. building are of the same material, and are nearing completion. The most positive confidence in the durability of the material is manifested in the construction of a 16-story sky-scraper in Cincinnati. The following from the N. Y. Commercial ought to convince the most skeptical:

"The first concrete sky-scraper, an affair of 16 stories, occupies a business corner in Cincinnati. It has a total height of 210 feet, and differs from the ordinary sky-scraper in that it lacks the interior rivetted steel frame-work. The building is in fact a concrete box, having 3-inch walls, concrete floors and roof, concrete beams, concrete columns and concrete stairs. The exterior is covered with marble for the lower floors and gray glazed brick for the upper stories, and terra cotta cornice, so that the principal upon which the building is constructed is entirely different from that of the now familiar sky-scraper."
